

Hearts and more hearts

By Daily Journal

Source:

Daily Journal Daily Journal

May 24, 2011

, Section: Opinion, Page A4

---

EDITOR'S NOTE — Hearts and Darts is published each Monday and as space is available.

To submit an item, e-mail editorial assistant Sarah Schulz at sschulz@dailyjournal.net, fax to 736-2766, call 736-2712 or mail to P.O. Box 699, Franklin, IN 46131.

Items should include the writer's full name, city of residence and telephone number and full names of all people mentioned in the item.

Writers are asked to name no more than 10 individuals and five businesses in hearts and not to name individuals in darts. Items should not exceed 100 words. We do not print darts related to business disputes.

Hearts

Hearts to William "Pete" Travis for warning the public about the E. coli dangers in our local creeks. His work gave a badly needed warning to protect our community's health (May 16 Daily Journal story by Joseph S. Pete).

Dale Marmaduke

Greenwood

InterChurch Food Pantry of Johnson County feeds the homeless, hungry children, hungry seniors and you, if you become hungry.

Thanks to Little Caesar's Pizza for continuing donations; White Castle of Franklin for the donation; the Boy Scout troop for their donations and help around the pantry; the U.S. Postal Service for collecting food for the hungry throughout the United States; and the Roger Gifford family for the loan of Gifford, who served as interim manager.

Elaine Maurer

Manager

InterChurch Food Pantry of Johnson County

A big, huge thank-you and heartfelt appreciation to Dr. Daniel Miller of the Foot and Ankle Institute at 8615 U.S. 31 South in Greenwood, and to all of the office ladies who have been nothing but kind and cheerful and helpful to my wife, Christie Hornung, who had to have surgery on her foot and ankle. They made a difficult time in our lives one of ease and comfort. Thank you.

Michael Hornung

Indianapolis

I want to send a heartfelt thanks to those who helped plant flowers on the monument of the courthouse. Thanks to Ed Henry for the donation of the flowers, Seth Brown, Professional Edge for the mulch, and all the Franklin Elks members who helped. I truly appreciate all the help.

Penny Baxter

Franklin

Hearts to the person who left my briefcase on the doorstep. Even though it had been stolen from my car, thrown in the weeds and run over by a lawnmower, it was good to get it back. If you could let me know where you found it and who you are, I would appreciate it. I would like to search for my business files that were in it.

John M. Cole

Franklin

Hearts to the Greenwood library for hosting the 2011 Greater Greenwood Arts Council Art Showcase for Center Grove, Greenwood and Whiteland high schools that is on display until June 30. Hearts to Jim Stockman, Angela Stelljes, Thomas Wright, Christian Maslowski, Meme Kramer, Betty Sisco, Tom and Connie Dirks, Margaret Hamilton and staff for all their hard work and support for the visual arts of the area schools. Hearts to the art teachers and students of the three schools that participated, which illustrated why art is important in American schools.

Terry Riley

Art chairman

Center Grove High School

Photo Caption: EDITOR'S NOTE — Hearts and Darts is published each Monday and as space is available.

To submit an item, e-mail editorial assistant Sarah Schulz at sschulz@dailyjournal.net, fax to 736-2766, call 736-2712 or mail to P.O. Box 699, Franklin, IN 46131.